Capital of Croatia - Zagreb

Zagreb, the Capital of Croatia, is an important tourist center, not only in terms of passengers traveling from the rest of Europe to the Adriatic Sea, but also as a travel destination itself - congress and incentive destination. Since the end of the war, it has attracted close to a million visitors annually. It has become an important tourist destination, not only in Croatia, but in the the whole Europe. There are also many festivals and events throughout the year, which made Zagreb a year-round tourist destination for many years already. Due its excellent position, on the West-East roads, only about 400 kms from Vienna, Milan, Venice and Budapest, many international air companies and low-cost companies fly to Zagreb on daily basis. Modern highways connect Zagreb with popular and famous destinations on the Adriatic Sea, as Pula, Opatija, Split and Dubrovnik.
